

The last year has seen our little group go from an informal banding to a more formalised incorporated association. While it's only the last few months we've been actively working to set up a station I'm personally very pleased with the way we have been able to apply our skills.

The state government of Victoria demands associations hold annual general meetings so that they can be sure and association is at least talking with its members - fortunately this is not something Apollo bay radio needs to worry about.

For those that have read any of our meeting minutes, none of this report will be any news.

The association has continued to hold to an 'open governance' model, having any and all decisions made in public with the decision making process available for anyone to inspect and join in with. Apollo bay radio's records are available for inspection by any member at any time, with any even remotely pertinent information published on the website.

Other community organisations in Apollo bay seem to already embrace Apollo bay radio. While this does speak to the will of the Apollo bay community generally to have its services local, I believe this is, in the main, due to the community goodwill generated by members of Apollo bay radio.

We have plenty of good work to do – we're laying good foundations which should see us in good stead in the decades to come.
